

Bedtime Story For the Little Ones

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE BUSY BEE.
BY HOWARD R. GARIS.

THE had old nose pinching baboon, whose own nose was so blue that it seemed he must have, one day, been in the laundry business with a Chinaman, was working through the woods not far from the hollow stump farmhouse of Uncle Wiggly Longears.

"I wish I could think of a way to catch that old bunny chap," said the blue nosed baboon to himself. "I've tried my hardest, and so has the tail pulling chimpanzee and the ear scratching cat, but we haven't had any luck. I wonder what I can do now."

He looked over at the hollow stump house. Smoke was coming out of the chimney, for it was early morning, and Nurse Jane Furry Wuzzy was getting the bunny's breakfast.

"Yes, I must surely catch Uncle Wiggly," said the blue nosed baboon. "I want to pinch his nose good and hard. I'll wait until he comes out, and perhaps by that time I'll think of a way to catch him."

So the baboon waited in the woods, thinking and thinking, but no plan came into his mind.

"I'll ask some one," he said to himself. Just then a bee buzzed past on her way to gather honey from the woodland flowers.

"Just a minute, Mrs. Bee," chattered the baboon. "I want to ask you—please don't stop me," begged the bee. "I am the busy bee—the busiest bee you ever saw. I have to make a whole lot of honey before supper and I'm late now. I must be on my way, and away she flew."

Well, no use bothering with her, thought the baboon. "I'll have to think up a way of my own to catch Mr. Longears. I'll go over on his farm and wait for him to come out."

So the baboon did, finally falling asleep under a big burdock leaf.

After a while Uncle Wiggly came out of his stump, and he did not see the baboon. Nor did the blue nosed creature observe the bunny—and observe is only another word for see.

"Yes, this is a good day to look after my farm," said Uncle Wiggly to himself. "I'll see how the carrots, turnips and potatoes are growing."

On and on he went over hill and dale, for there were hills on his farm, and pretty soon he came to where some wild flowers grow over them was a buzzing bee, flitting from blossom to blossom, and Uncle Wiggly said:

"Good morning, Mrs. Bee."

"Oh, good morning," politely answered the bee. "But please don't bother me. I don't mean to be impolite, but I am the busy bee you ever saw. I haven't time to breathe, to say nothing of talking. I'm so very busy! I'll just sing you this song about myself, written by my friend, Mr. Humble, and the bee sang:

"I am a very busy bee,
I fly from flower to flower.
I really haven't time to stop,
Not even for an hour.
I'd surely like to stop and chat,
And pass the time of day,
But I must rather hurry now,
So I'll be on my way!"

And then the bee, who, even while she was singing, had not stopped flitting from blossom to blossom, flew on, waving her wings in a friendly farewell to Uncle Wiggly.

"My! What a busy creature she is to be sure," the bunny uncle said. "All-morning as busy as Nurse Jane Furry Wuzzy when she's baking buckwheat cakes on a winter morning."

All this while the blue nosed baboon was sleeping under the burdock plant. After a while he awoke, and finding that it was getting late, he said:

"My goodness! I must be doing something about catching Uncle Wiggly. I guess I'll go look for him. He ought to be somewhere on his farm now."

Just about then the bunny gentleman, having put some weeds out of the onion bed, so they could sleep better, was on his way home in his hollow stump. And, not knowing the baboon was under the burdock plant, Mr. Longears passed close to it.

"Ah, ha! Here is my chance!" cried the blue creature. "I'll start out and jump and grab the bunny. 'I have you!' cried the blue nosed baboon. 'Now to pay you back for getting away from me and my friends so often. Let me see, now, I guess I'll take you with me before I pinch your nose. I'll let the ear scratching cat and the tail pulling chimpanzee have a look at you. Otherwise they'd never be so busy as you are!'"

"Oh, please let me go!" sadly begged Uncle Wiggly.

"No," said the baboon, taking a tight hold of the bunny's ear. "Let me see now. Which is the best way to go through the woods?"

While he was thinking along flew the busy bee. Uncle Wiggly saw her and whispered to her, very very low, so the baboon did not hear him:

"Excuse me, Mrs. Bee. I know you are very busy, but if you would you might fly past a policeman dog and send him to me to get me loose from the blue nosed baboon. I know you are very busy, but—"

"But I am not too busy to help you!" interrupted the bee lady, not meaning to be impolite, of course. And I am not too busy to make that bad baboon let you go," she cried. And then there she buzzed over and stung the baboon right on the end of his blue nose so that he cried:

"Ouch! Ouch! wow!" Also peanut cakes and hot muffins with butter on 'em, dear!"

Then he clapped both his paws to his stung nose, and ran to put some ice water on it. And, of course, Uncle Wiggly was safe then, and could go home, and the bee, the bunny, the baboon, the chimpanzee and the hummock—Copyright, 1916, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

60 DAISY DEAN

JULES VERNE'S "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" is being filmed by Universal. For this purpose an East Indian city has been built at Universal City. This city, it is said, has a great temple, many two story buildings and a massive gateway and adjoining battlements. They are solid structures.

Work has been proceeding on this production, which will be in 12 reels for more than a year, it will probably not be in complete shape for another six months. The Universal claims to have expended $500,000 already on the production.

Under new scenes, it is announced, were made some months ago in the Bahamas Islands, near Stuart, Pafos, the director, is said to have traveled and operated a cinematographic submarine vessel along the ocean bed, photographing the dramatic scenes of players garbed in variegated costumes of divers.

Jan. Hall is playing the feminine lead, with Allen Hoxley and Allen Moore playing opposite. Other important roles are in the hands of Joseph Girard, William Welsh and Lois Alexander.

EDNA MAYO IN "THE RETURN OF EVE"

They tell some interesting things about "The Return of Eve." Edna Mayo's latest feature. For instance the whole fourth reel is made up of consecutively taken pictures. The action all occurs in a ballroom, an elaborate set filled with an entire studio at the Esplanade plant, and in which 200 persons, the most ever used for an interior at Esplanade, appeared.

In making the scenes at the Delta beach resort was brought to the company by the relics of true love scattered about in the shape of twisted initials circled by hearts carved around the scene, which for purposes of the scenario, was supposed to be a virgin wilderness. Repeated retakes were necessary, and sand filling was used. They are going to put Kitty Gordon in "Thais" under the direction of Emil Chantard, and the announced expectation of the World Film publicity department is that the lady is especially well cast.

Persons whose fortunes it is should not speculate during the coming year. Business will demand attention.

Contagious diseases may be prevalent before frost comes. Sanitary precautions against infections should be stringent, especially in sea coast cities.

Making The Feet Pretty

AS FAR AS KEEPING the feet beautiful is concerned, it is better to buy two pairs of shoes at once, and wear them out in four months, than a new pair every two months. Nothing rests and refreshes the feet so much as changing them from one to another pair of shoes, nothing is better for them—except to wear barefoot sandals.

Many women find that their feet ache if they wear low-heeled shoes any length of time. I always want to advise such women to lower the type of heel they wear a half an inch every time they purchase new shoes, until they have accustomed them selves to the low or the lack of heel.

Nature intended women to walk without artificial heels, the foot flat on the ground while standing, the toe dropped lower than the heel while resting. Heels artificially keep the toes lower than the heel at all times. As we all know, they came into general use because Madame Pompadour was short and wanted to appear taller. In a day when fashion demanded height—so she added rubbers to her heels to increase her stature.

Women who stand much either for housework or for business tasks, should wear heels less than an inch high, broad, to form a firm base for the bones of the leg and ankle. They should keep one pair of shoes for work and change as soon as they get home.

If the feet are tired or swollen, bathe them in very hot and very salty water, and rub them for several minutes. This will make the whole body seem relaxed and fresh again.

Questions and Answers

Have been troubled with constipation for three years—following an operation. Have had bad health, had complexion and a pessimistic disposition. Please suggest something by way of remedy. Have tried all sorts of laxative pills.—Tad.

Reply—Don't use any more pills—most cathartics are enough in themselves to make you pessimistic. For two weeks use a daily hot water enema, for two weeks more use it every other day. Then stop. This should clean out the waste matter congested in the colon and start the whole digestive system over again.

Reply—Skin specialists can cure them marks permanently—it is rare to see a marked person on the streets any more. I do not know the reason, but I believe the outer skin is peeled, but I know the cure is harmless and permanent. No one should neglect it if they have been unfortunately scarred.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic—Take Greaves'

The Old Standard Greaves' Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tonic because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tonic acts better than horrible calomel, your money is waiting for you.—Advertisement.

TRY OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN, OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FAT.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precautions to guard against over-stimulation, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight, you are slowly drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any persons who are satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to Kelly & Pollard or the People's Drug Store and get a bottle of Oil of Korein capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

Even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the old energy, footsteps become lighter and the skin loses its flabby appearance as superfluous fat disappears.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot induce indigestion or upset the stomach. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.—Adv.

STOP! CALOMEL IS QUICKSILVER

Fruit and Vegetable Pickle

By CONSTANCE CLARKE.

IN spite of the good quality of all kinds of manufactured preserves, most housewives cling to the idea that home-made preserves are the best. The following recipe for a delicious fruit and vegetable pickle is easily prepared.

Peel, core and cut-up twelve medium-sized apples. Remove the stones from a pound of dates, and boil the two in a quart of vinegar until tender. Then add three cups of brown sugar, one-half ounce of ground ginger, two cloves of garlic, six medium-sized tomatoes, one cup of seedless raisins, one teaspoonful of salt and mustard, and one pound of dried apricots. The apricots should be soaked and cut into small pieces before they are added. Put in jars while hot, and cover when cold.
